

COOKIE POLICY

This Cookie Policy provides detailed information about the types of cookies which TARROS S.p.A. (hereinafter “TARROS”), with registered office at Via Privata Enel, 19126 La Spezia (SP) Italy, ph.: +39 0187 5371 and certified email tarros@pec.it, uses as controller and on how these cookies are used. It also provides indications on how to refuse or delete cookies on our website <http://www.tarros.it> (hereinafter referred as “the Site”).

This policy constitutes an integral part of the Privacy Policy of the website http://www.tarros.it/wp-content/uploads/2019/10/GDPR_INFORMATIVA-GENERICA.pdf

Users at any time can exercise their rights in compliance with the Regulation (EU) 2016/679 (hereinafter “GDPR”) submitting written request to the controller.

You can change the settings of your browser by following the specific instructions provided in this Cookie Policy.

COOKIES DESCRIPTION

Cookies consist of portions of codes (computer files or partial data) sent by a web server to the user’s Internet browser where they are automatically stored and later sent back to the server on each subsequent visit of the same user. A cookie usually contains the name of the website from which it has come and its “lifetime” (how long it will remain on the user’s device). On each subsequent visit cookies are sent back to the originating website (first-party cookies) or to another website which recognizes the cookies (third-party cookies).

Cookies are useful since they enable a website to recognize its users’ device and have different purposes such as allowing the users to browse pages efficiently, remembering their favourite websites, and improving their overall experience.

Cookies are also used to help in providing users with advertisements that are relevant to them.

If you decide to disable cookies, or specific categories of cookies, this may affect and/or limit your browsing experience on the website, for example you may no longer be able to visit specific sections or receive customized information.

Cookies can be first-party cookies or third-party cookies according to the website or domain from where they originate: first-party cookies are directly created and controlled by the website which the user is visiting, whereas third-party cookies are created by third parties other than the website which the user is visiting. TARROS does not have control over third-party cookies and does not have access to the data which are collected. This information is exclusively controlled by third-party websites in compliance with their Privacy Policy and Cookie Policy.

TYPES OF COOKIES

According to their functionality cookies can be classified as:

1. Strictly necessary cookies;
2. Functional cookies;
3. Performance cookies;
4. Marketing cookies.

1. Strictly necessary cookies are essential for the user to browse the website and use its features and/or services, such as accessing secure areas on the website. Cookies which allow to send messages are an example of strictly necessary cookies.

2. Functional cookies allow our website to remember the choices which users make on the website (e.g. language preferences or user’s location) in order to offer improved and proper functioning of the website. These cookies can also be used to enable functions which you may request, such as playing videos or downloading documents. The information collected by cookies can be anonymous and the website shall not reveal the identity and the activity of its users to other websites.

3. Performance cookies are specifically used for gathering data on how visitors use a website, for example which pages are visited most often and if they get error messages on web pages. These cookies do not collect identifiable information on specific visitors. All information collected by these cookies is aggregated and therefore anonymous. It is only used to improve the performance of the website.

4. Marketing cookies.

Tarros S.p.A's website only uses technical Cookies.

This website uses Google Analytics cookies, a web service provided by Google, Inc. ("Google"). The information generated by the cookies about your use of the website (including your IP address) will be sent and stored by Google which will use this information for the purpose of: evaluating your use of the website, compiling reports on website activities and providing other services relative to website activities and Internet usage.

STORAGE OF COOKIES ON YOUR DEVICE

Cookies may be stored on your computer for different periods of time depending on the category to which they belong: temporary cookies or persistent cookies.

Temporary cookies: these cookies are used on all secure areas in order to assign a session ID to the user and save that ID so that the user can move around the website without interruption. This identifier is also used for internal reporting purposes, it does not allow to identify the user and does not leave any information recoverable on the user's hard drive. Most cookies fall into this category and expire after the Internet browser is closed.

Persistent cookies: analytical cookies and third-party cookies are persistent cookies. They are used to identify visitors' browsing behaviour over a longer period of time and to provide the visitors with additional features related to website customization requests and the content which the visitor has saved or stored. These cookies may be stored on the user's computer for 24 hours, one week or years, depending on the functions which they help perform.

COOKIE MANAGEMENT

Most browsers accept cookies automatically, but you can alter the settings of your browsers to block cookies or to be notified when a cookie is issued. To find out more about cookies, such as how to manage cookies or change settings, check the instructions on your browser and the links for more browser-specific information.

If you decide to disable cookies, this may affect your experience on this website, for example you may no longer be able to visit specific sections or receive customized information when you use the website.

If you use different devices for accessing the Internet (computer, smartphones, tablets, etc.), customize your browser's cookie settings to reflect your comfort level with cookies.
